Exchange & Broker's Office,

Georgetown, District of Columbia.
ROMULUS RIGGS,
AT his office, next door below Crawford's tavern, Bridge-st. Georgetown, will exchange all kinds of Bank Notes on the most reasonable terms.—All persons who may have notes on the banks of North Carolina, South Carolina and Georgia, would do well to call on him, as he is largely in the purchase of that kind of money, and will take it on the most reasonable terms.—Persons travelling to the Western Country may at all times get the Bank Notes of the Western Banks at a fair discount, by calling at his Office. For the information of all persons throughout the U. States, R. Riggs makes it known, that all of the Banks of the District of Columbia pay their notes on demand in specie; and it would be much to the advantage of the merchants, and trading to the South and west, to encourage the circulation of the Notes of the Banks of Georgetown, Washington and Alexandria, as it will at all times answer for remittances to the large commercial and Atlantic towns;—all persons emigrating or travelling to the westward should be very particular and take the Notes of the Banks of the District of Columbia, as they will find them the most current, there being no counterfeits on the District Banks. The Merchants' Bank of Alexandria has long since failed—all persons should be on their guard, as they will be imposed on. August 18

Valuable Family Medicines.

JUST received direct from the proprietors, the following valuable Medicines, all of which have been in use for a number of years past, in almost every part of the United States; have been highly patronised by people of the first respectability; and approved by those who have had occasion to make use of them, for the cure of those disorders, for which they are severally calculated.

Dr. Lee's Genuine (Windham) Bilious Pills,

Universally known and used throughout the United States as a Family Medicine. The fame of these pills has become so great that many have attempted to counterfeit them—to guard against this, the proprietors have procured a Stereotype Label, and each box of Genuine Lee's Pills will hereafter be enclosed in one of these labels, with these words on the sides: "Lee's Genuine Windham Billious Pills," and on the end of the Label the words, "Samuel Lee, patentee, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor," &c. and should any be offered for sale without said Label on them, the purchaser may be apprised that they are counterfeit.

Dr. Thompson's Celebrated Eye-Water:

For the cure of inflamed and sore eyes of almost every description. This valuable preparation comes highly recommended from the most respectable sources. Price 50 and 25 cents a bottle.

Dr. Rawson's Genuine Itch Ointment:

A certain and safe cure for that disagreeable complaint, as well as other irruptions of the skin. Price 37½ cents a box.

Dr. Rawson's Anti-Bilious and Stomachic Bitters,

For weakly and infirm constitutions. Price 37½ cents a box.

Hinckley's Infallible Remedy for the Piles,

A most valuable medicine. Price 50 cents a box.

Specific Drops for the Tooth Ache,

Which in almost every case, gives instant relief, in that distressing complaint. Price 37½ cents a bottle.

Cooley's Vegetable Elixir, for Coughs, Asthmas, Consumptions, &c.

A very valuable medicine in those complaints. Price 50 cents a bottle.

LINES,

By the author of the "Pleasures of Hope."

As wand'ring I found on my ruinous walk,
By the dial stone, aged and green,
One rose of the wilderness left on its stalk
To mark where a garden had been;
Like a brotherless hermit, the last of its race,
All wild in the silence of nature, it drew
From each wand'ring sun beam a lonely embrace;
For the night-weed and thorn oversbadow'd the place,
Where the flow'r of my forefathers grew.

Sweet bud of the wilderness! emblem of all
That survives in this desolate heart!
The fabric of bliss to its centre may fall,
But patience shall never depart;
Tho' the wilds of enchantment, all vernal and bright,
In the days of delusion by fancy combin'd
With the vanishing phantoms of love and delight,
Abandon my soul like a dream of the night,
And leave but a desert behind.

From a late English paper.

ASTONISHING TREE.

On the Isle of Sor, to the east, cotton and indigo grow naturally, and together with mangoes mimosas, the magnificent boabab, or adausoia, the elephant of the vegetable kingdom, is found. This tree often serves the negroes for a dwelling, the construction of which costs no further trouble than cutting an opening in the side to serve as a door, and taking out the very soft pith which fills the inside of the trunk. The tree far from being injured by this operation, seems even to derive more vigor from the fire which is lighted in it, for the purpose of drying the sap, by carbonizing it. In this state it almost always happens that the bark, instead of forming a ridge at the edge of the wound, as happens in some trees in Europe, continues to grow, and at length covers the whole inside of the tree, generally without any wrinkles, and thus presents the astonishing spectacle of an immense tree recompleted in its organization but having the form of an enormous hollow cylinder, or rather a vast arborescent wall, bent into a circular form, and having its sides sufficiently wide assunder to let you enter into the space which it encloses. If casting your eyes on the immense dome of verdure which forms the summit of this rural place, we see a swarm of birds adorned with the richest colours, sporting on its foliage, such as rollers with sky blue plumages, senegallis of a crimson colour, and souimanga, shining with gold and azure; if advancing under the vault, we find flowers of dazzling whiteness, hanging on every side; and if in the centre of the retreat, an old man and his family, a young mother and her child meet the eye; what a croud of delicious ideas are aroused at this moment!—The leaves when dried are converted into the powder lalo, with which the natives season almost all their food. They employ the roots medicinally inwardly, and its gummy bark for disorders in the breast, they make cataplasms of the parenchyma of the trunk for cutaneous diseases,—they use the pulp of its fruit as an astringent beverage,—they regale themselves with its almonds, they smoke the calyx of its flowers instead of tobacco,—and often by dividing into two parts the globular capsules, and leaving the long woody stalk fixed to one of the halves, which become dry and hard they make a large spoon or ladle.

ANECDOTE.

A farmer who lived in the neighbourhood of Owl Creek Bank (Ohio,) on hearing the bank had stopped payment, he examined his money and found he had a one dollar note in his possession, issued by said bank; he immediately started off, post haste, to the bank, and demanded payment of the note.—The teller informed him "he had come too late, the bank had been insolvent for a considerable time previous to his calling, and that he was very sorry they could not pay him specie for the note"—The farmer burst into a violent passion, swore the bank and all that had any concern in its first establishment were a set of rascals; and on his leaving the bank declared he would have satisfaction of them before long, for their rascality—on his way home he espied a very large owl; he up with his gun and shot it; he returned in haste to the bank, carrying the dead owl along with him, entered the bank a second time, and dashed the owl down on the counter with violence: Now, said he, I told you I would have satisfaction of you; there, pointing to the owl, is your d———d President; you may shut your bank door now as soon as you please.

ALEXANDRIA:
THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1819.

Want of courage is a great blemish in the human character, and is the more disgusting because it is a counteraction of man's proper nature—while courage is so common a quality that it cannot justly be said to confer distinction. In the myriads of good and bad, gentlemen and vagabonds—men of virtue and scoundrels—honest men and rogues who compose an army, the number of cowards properly so called, are so few that old experienced leaders of armies generally come to doubt whether there is a man who will not fight when necessary—so that it is probable that on the day of the battle of Waterloo, Bonaparte, Wellington and Blucher would have concurred in avowing their belief, that there was not in the mixed hosts who stood in that field, a man who would not fight as hard as his duty demanded. Passing from armies to mobs, he who is hardy enough to try the experiment, will find that in a thousand of the most vile, degraded miscreants who infest the lanes and allies of London, Dublin, Edinburgh, Paris or Lisbon—on the quays of the Liffey, the docks of Liverpool, or the wharves of the Thames, they will not perhaps find one individual who will not on the spot resent an insult and chastise the aggressor, be he who he may, and his rank what it will, or the consequence ever so serious. I should not be afraid to set up, for a large wager, the first score of robbers, pickpockets, housebreakers or mendicants, imposters of all nations who congregate in the sties of St. Giles's, and stand daily candidates for Botany Bay or the new drop, or the first score of the butcher's boys and basket carriers of St. Patrick's market, as animals of courage, against the pick and choice of those miserable, stupid and wicked fools, who pique themselves upon their promptness for duelling; and every pirate boat contains men equal to the mad Alexander of the north, as Pope called Charles the 12th of Sweden, in courage. It is a most contemptible error to set such a high value upon a quality so excessively common, and which we know by its being possessed by so many of the lowest and basest of the human race, in all its conditions, barbarous, social or refined, as well as by the most exalted and virtuous, bears no necessary relation to any other virtue. One would think that nothing but the consciousness of differing deplorably from the mass of his fellow creatures in that respect, could ever start in him a suspicion that courage is a great and rare quality, and that his own may be doubted—and I am the more persuaded of it, because nearly at the end of a long life, I am able to affirm with truth, that of the few dastards I have met in the course of my life, the far greater number,—I might say, almost the whole, were contentious, captious, boastful of their valor, and incessantly on the alert to make the world believe that they were ready to fight—while on the other, men who neither doubt their own courage or that of others, are silent on the subject—never advert to it—suspect no man of meaning an offence until he has trespassed beyond all reasonable endurance, proceed through life without once speculating on the subject, and move on to the grave without bearing malice or being the objects of it. Yet for the purpose of maintaining a character for this most common and universal of all human qualities, and to avoid that suspicion which never would be entertained if themselves did not invite it, do thousands imbrue their hands in the blood of their fellow beings, and not unfrequently of their friends.

Courage has always been regarded as laudable when exercised in defence of self, country, family and unprotected innocence; but even in that kind of exercise, it must, in order to be laudable, be pure and unmingled with malice: and I can tell our duellists—our "butchers of a button hole," as Shakspeare calls them, that the men from whom the practice of duelling has descended to its present gross & degenerate state of savagery, were so far from acting under the impulse of malice in the business, that they underwent a formal religious purgation at the altar before they entered upon it, and after acquitting their honor, were not less solicitous to spare the life of their adversary than to conquer him. In short, it would not be difficult to demonstrate that no two beings under Heaven can be imagined more essentially different, than the hero of the old days of chivalry, and one of our modern duellists. I should like to see a pair of pictures from the pencil of some artist of fine imagination—Fuseli for instance—representing in its full tone of contrast this difference, and I have no doubt that the disgraceful figure which the latter would exhibit, would go a great way towards damping that diabolical and mischievous pride which ignorant young men take in such transactions. How exalted, how grand, how laudable, how lovely, how majestic a picture, blurred though it is with insanity; does the Knight of the Sorrowful Countenance present, watching his armour in the inn yard, when compared with one of our modern duellists, with crimsoned face and breath empoisoned with liquor and tobacco smoke, staggering out of a tavern to fight a duel, about nothing. A pretty victim, truly, to be immolated on the sacred altar of combat, which in its original institution was intended, however erroneously, as an appeal to the omnipotent on the justice and inevitable necessity of a righteous contest.

The wretch falls—and what follows?—Why, he is buried: a few drunkards, like himself, perhaps may devote the residue of the evening to drinking, and talking of fighting, and vapouring, and boasting—and the next day all that is remembered of him is, that he had a horse which was worth buying, and that therefore a good look out must be kept for his auction, when as many will attend as are sober enough to sit their horses, remain unshot at the time the sale takes place, and can borrow or chouse their friends or relatives out of money enough to buy the Rosinante.

Let me tell those fond courtiers of fame for courage, that this is the utmost harvest to be reaped from a duel. Whatever value the thing might once have had in the eyes of fools and ignorants, the frequency of the act, and the low hands into which it often falls, has so cheapened it, that there is not a miss just relieved from the restraints of the boarding school who thinks a man a bit the cleverer for having killed his man, or for being shot at himself.—Few have vigorous bad taste enough to admire a man for dying, what every blackguard can do as well as himself; and if my shoe black can fight a duel as well as any murderer in the land, I will not run the risk of my life for the mere credit of duelling.

To the Editors of the National Intelligencer

The pleasure the perusal of the enclosed circular of the Secretary of the Treasury has given me, prompts me to invite its insertion in your paper; I refer to the closing paragraphs relative to the introduction of useful plants and inventions from abroad.—A government is never better engaged than in multiplying and diffusing these true and unalloyed blessings of commerce and civilization. Too little attention has been hitherto paid by the general government to these objects. Its capacity of doing good in this respect is almost boundless, and at an expense that would not be individually felt. Let us hope that the enlightened zeal, thus manifested by a distinguished officer of the government, may awaken corresponding feelings in the public, and lead by their emphatic expression, to Legislative measures worthy of a community, in which the great and indeed only pride of the government should be the promotion of the public welfare. While we are so honorably engaged in measures of defence against foreign aggression, let us not forget that these measures are merely the shield of our internal prosperity, and that our only indemnity for the cost of the former will be the extension of the latter. A. B.

Treasury Department,
March 26, 1819.

Sir—In order to ensure uniformity in the execution of the act of the 20th of April, 1818, supplementary to the Collection Laws and more especially to enforce the provisions of the 8th, 13th and 21st sections thereof, the Consuls of the United States residing in foreign states are informed that,

1st. In all cases where, by the municipal laws of the country in which they exercise their functions, they are restrained from administering oaths the verification required by the 8th section of the act may be made, in the presence of the resident Consul, before any magistrate duly authorized to administer oaths—and such consul shall certify not only the official character of the officer, and that the oath was administered in his presence, but that the person to whom it was administered is of respectable character, and who, according to the provisions of the said act, ought to verify the said invoices.

2d. Where merchandize is purchased for a commercial house in the U. States, by a partner residing abroad, the invoice ought to be verified by such partner, under the 8th section of the act.

3d. All cases embraced by the 13th section of the act are subject to the addition of fifty per cent.; the failure to produce invoices duly verified being, in contemplation of the act, equivalent to merchandize fraudulently invoiced at twenty five per cent below its appraised value.

4th. Difficulties have occurred under the 21st section of the act relative to discounts. It has been represented to this department, that the most of the discounts which appear on the invoices of merchandize, especially from England, are not made for prompt payment, nor ultimately depend upon any condition of that nature. It is asserted that the true price of the merchandize is ascertained only by deducting the discounts from the invoice prices, and that where discounts are allowed for prompt payment, or, from a future contingency, they are entered distinct from the common discounts, above described. You are therefore requested to state to this department the general custom in this regard within your consulate, and, as far as depends upon you to endeavor to have the articles invoiced at their true value, so that no discount may appear thereon, except what may be made and allowed in the payment made for the same within the term of the said section.

5th. You are requested to cause the discount allowed upon such invoices as may be verified before you to be entered upon each invoice, and not upon the summary or recapitulation of several invoices, as is sometimes practised. The continuation of that practice may be productive of inconvenience to the parties, and is at all times calculated to excite suspicions of unfair dealing.

6th You are lastly requested to furnish this Department with semi-annual statements of the articles, the growth or manufacture of the United States, which are entered in the ports within your Consulate, and the foreign merchandise which is shipped therefrom to the United States in American vessels; showing, as nearly as practicable, the comparative value of the exports and imports. Conjectural estimates of the foreign shipping employed in the same trade, and of the value of the imports and exports laden on board such vessels, will be acceptable.

The introduction of useful plants, not before cultivated, or of such as are of superior quality to those which have been previously introduced, is an object of great importance to every civilized state, but more particularly to one recently organized, in which the progress of improvements of every kind has not to contend with ancient and deep-rooted prejudices. The introduction of such inventions, the results of the labor and science of other nations, is still more important, especially to the United States whose institutions secure to the importer no exclusive advantage from their introduction. Your attention is respectfully solicited to these important subjects.

The Collectors of the different ports of the United States will cheerfully, co-operate with you in this interesting and beneficent undertaking, and become the distributors of the collections of plants and seeds which may be consigned by you to their care. It will greatly facilitate the distribution, if the articles shall be sent directly to those sections of the Union where the soil and climate are adapted to their culture.

At present, no expense can be authorized, in relation to these objects. Should the result of these suggestions answer my expectations, it is possible that the attention of the national legislature may be attracted to the subject, and that some provision may be made, especially in relation to useful inventions.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, sir, your obedient servant,

WM. H. CRAWFORD.

PIRACY.

Particulars of the piratical capture of the brig Josephine of Philadelphia.

On the 23d Jan. sailed from Laguira, bound for Philadelphia, nothing particular occurred until 6 A. M. on the 27th, being then in sight of the Island of Porto Rico, discovered a brig in chase. At 8 A. M. she gave us a gun shot—we immediately hoisted up the American ensign, but continued our course. At 10 A. M. she gave us another gun shot, had fresh breeze and the vessel in chase, continued about the same distance—at meridian, wind inclined to S. and light—at 2, P. M. the chase fired their shot—wind getting very light, chase appeared to gain on us—at 4, P. M. she fired fourth shot, the wind dying away very fast, and chase gaining on us with the assistance of her sweeps—the island of Zachas ahead 2 or 3 leagues, at 3 P. M. a light breeze from the northward, took us aback, and chase coming up with the wind from S. and all her sweeps out, we found it impossible to prevent being boarded—we therefore took in all light sails, and the chase was in a few minutes alongside, hailed us in Spanish in a very abusive manner, and ordered the captain on board with his papers. We hoisted out our boat as quick as possible, and were while so doing, again hailed, and told if we did not make haste, our necks should pay for it. On the arrival of the captain on board the privateer, she proved to be the brig Oronoco, under the Venezuelian flag, commanded by Vincent Dubouil. Our boat's crew was ordered out of the boat, and she remained with an officer and five men; who boarded the Josephine and took possession of her.

The said officer immediately ordered one of his men "to haul down that damned Yankee flag;" which was done accordingly, and the remaining crew of the Josephine were sent on board, the privateer made sail and ordered the Josephine to keep company. On the 28th and 29th both vessels were in company beating up on the south side of Porto Rico, and at 5 P. M. on the 29th, anchored under the lee of the Dead Man's Chest.—At 6 P. M. all the Josephine's crew except the captain mate and steward, were put on board an English schooner they had detained. During the captains stay on board the privateer, he was informed they had been waiting for him a considerable time—that they intended to sell the cargo immediately, and fit the vessel for a privateer, and that they had plenty of arms and ammunition. On the captain remonstrating against this manner of proceeding, he was told that the vessel and cargo had been condemned long ago, and there was no necessity for any further ceremony.

On the 1st Feb. we were put on board the English schooner, and at 5 P. M. same day, left the privateer and Josephine, and on the 4th, at 10 P. M. arrived at St. Thomas, where we learned that the above named privateer had plundered several neutral vessels, one of them a N. York schooner, out of which they took what articles they pleased and 1500 dollars in cash. Admiral Brion being informed of his piratical proceeding, issued a proclamation (which has already appeared) declaring captain Dubouil to be a pirate and ordering his apprehension.

New-York, March, 27.

FROM LISBON.

Capt. Rose, in 35 days passage from that port, informs that many crews of Portuguese vessels, captured by privateers bearing Artigas' flag, had lately arrived there. They uniformly reported, that the privateers were wholly manned by citizens of the United States, and the crews acknowledged that they were owned in and fitted out of ports of the U. States. This had a most unfavourable impression on our national character in Portugal.

J. Pemberton Hutchinson esq. consul of the U. States for Portugal has arrived here in the Atalanta, on leave of absence.

DEAF AND DUMB.

From the Journal Du Commerce.

[Translated for the Boston Daily Adv.]

Paris, Jan. 1.

An experiment very authentick and exceedingly interesting to humanity was commenced by order of government, in 1813, upon four children completely deaf and dumb from their birth, and has been continued upon the youngest of them to the present day, by M. d' Moret, particular instructer of deaf and dumb, No. 9, Vangirard street.

The result of this experiment is, that M. de Moret professes the art of making the deaf and dumb hear with their eyes, and of teaching them to express their thoughts viva voce, without any outcry—to read with a natural tone—to write what is dictated verbally—and to attach to things the ideas which belong to them. He has succeeded perfectly in increasing the sum of their ideas,—in giving them an exact knowledge of language, and of things; which are independent of sensations; and in putting them into a state to converse with intelligence with other men, without making any use of signs, and of comprehending all that is said to them, by watching the motion of the lips in the day time, and by feeling it in the dark. He has in short given them the same instruction which is given to those who are able to receive it in the ordinary way by the hearing.

All this success, which is so wonderful, proves evidently that M. de Moret has carried the art of instructing the deaf and dumb to a higher degree of perfection than it was thought possible for it to attain.

As it would be very unfortunate that talents so precious to humanity, the fruit of thirty years' reflection, study, costly experiments and painful labours, should be lost to society, we are able to announce that M. de Moret has the intention of receiving on reasonable terms, a certain number of pupils of both sexes, from six to fifteen years old, to instruct according to his method, in order to propagate it. Parents can receive directly from the institution proofs of the fact above stated. What an advantage, what a happiness will it be to them, if they can obtain from him the means of restoring to society their unfortunate children, whom nature seems to have cut off from it for ever, by refusing them the greatest of its blessings!

Attention.

A STATED meeting of the INDEPENDENT BLUES, will be held at the court-house on SATURDAY evening 3d instant, at ½ past 7 o'clock.

Notice.

☞ The inhabitants of Alexandria will take notice, that the subscribers have been appointed assessors for the present year, agreeably to the laws of the corporation.

The said assessors shall, immediately after their appointment, proceed to value the houses and lots within the limits of the corporation, and to demand from the masters and mistresses of every family, lists of all male tytheables belonging to, or residing in their respective families, and also from every owner of taxable property, a list of such property. And if any master or mistress of a family, or any owner of taxable property, shall neglect or refuse to give in a list of all male tytheables belonging to, or residing in his or her family, or of his or her taxable property, within five days after demand made thereof by any assessor, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay one hundred dollars. And if any person whatsoever, shall wilfully omit or misrepresent in the list given in, any tytheable or any taxable property, or shall in any other manner conceal the same from the knowledge of the assessors, the person so offending shall forfeit and pay double the amount of the tax imposed on each tytheable or taxable property. Every merchant, shopkeeper, mechanic, or other person, having in his or her service or employment any clerk, journeyman, apprentice, or assistant, shall render an account of the same in his or her list of tytheables, and shall be accountable for the capitation tax hereby imposed, in like manner and under the same penalties, as if such clerk, journeyman, apprentice, or assistant, were a member of his or her family."

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirious of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or

Vaccine Institution.

THE small pox having appeared in Alexandria, such persons as have been vaccinated by the subscriber are invited to attend at his office, on St. Asaph-street, between Prince and Duke streets, to have their arms examined. Indigent persons are also invited to the same place for the purpose of being vaccinated. The subscriber will attend at his office every day in the week except Sunday, from 7 o'clock until 10 in the morning, for the purpose of receiving them.

He proposes also to be less particular than heretofore in the investigation of their claims to the benefit of the institution, as may respect their indigence and length of residence in town. The subscriber earnestly requests all such citizens as may be acquainted with persons liable to contagion, to send them without delay as above directed, where they will be served effectually and gratuitously.
